HOW TO START A SMALL BUSINESS in Haverford Township

This guide provides an overview of the procedures, regulations, and licenses that affect every small business, as well as the additional licensing and training required for businesses that sell or handle food.

Every business is unique and regulations can change, so please consider this pamphlet as a guideline, not a comprehensive resource. It is important that you contact your city or county offices (listed in this guide) to make sure that you are in compliance with current procedures.

GETTING STARTED ...

All businesses are required to follow government rules and regulations, which differ depending on the type of business that you intend to open. It is important that business owners understand and comply with regulations to protect their customers and their business investment.

Zoning regulations specify what types of businesses can operate in a particular location and set rules about signs and parking. Building code regulations require that both the structure and the space within a business property are safe and accessible for customers and employees. Building codes specify how electrical, plumbing, heating, and fire safety systems must be installed and maintained.

For businesses that sell, serve, and/or prepare foods are subject to additional health regulations. Food establishment regulations specify how food storage, preparation areas, and equipment should be set up, and how systems like water supply and sanitation should be installed and maintained.

Why do we need an economic development corporation in Haverford Township?

The Township's older business districts are showing signs of physical deterioration and neglect. Intervention strategies are needed to revitalize the aging business districts so that we can maintain a charming, vibrant walkable community with a quaint hometown feeling that holds appeal for local residents and neighboring communities.

The HPED is needed to help improve the appearance and economic vitality of our business districts, foster a greater sense of community among business owners and operators, and establish better relations between businesses and the Township.

As an inner-ring suburb, Haverford Township is at risk to become progressively urbanized if concrete steps are not taken to revitalize our community business districts. The formation of an economic development corporation is a key component of any revitalization initiative.

History proves that non-profit economic development organizations can be successful and create positive benefits for businesses (and the entire community). When implemented successfully business district revitalization more than pays for itself in business tax revenues and appreciation in the market values of commercial and residential properties.
